

A Report from the Front Lines of the COVID-19 Pandemic - and How You Can Help

I run the Squirrel Hill Health Center, a nonprofit federally funded community health center in Pittsburgh. My organization is one of 1,400 federally funded community health organizations, which serve 29 million people across the United States. We are truly on the front lines in this quite horrific and shocking moment of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Many people have asked me what it feels like in the trenches. The answer? We feel very much alone.

The Squirrel Hill Health Center serves approximately 8,000 individual patients a

Pittsburgh's undocumented community and nearly every refugee who has arrived in our county in the past decade. We also help people born in the United

111
Shares

